

Twitter List Websites

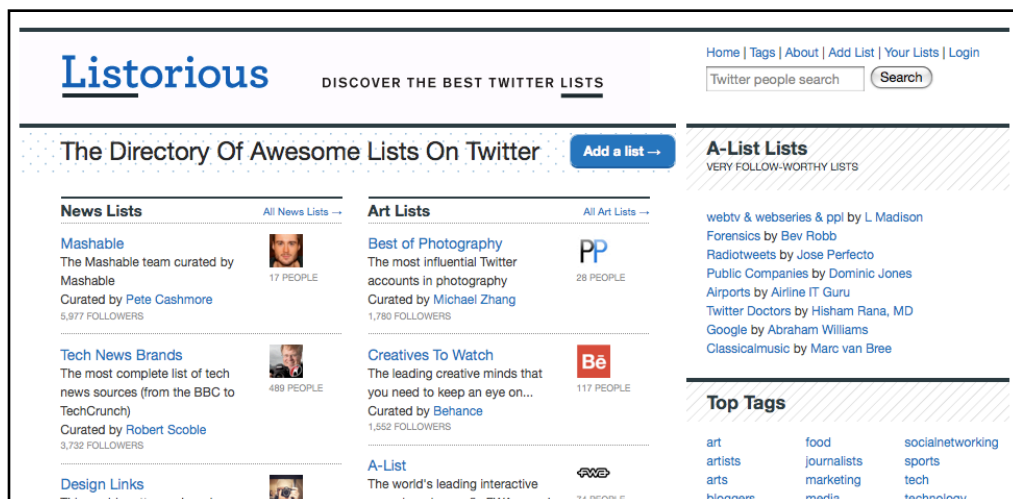

SearchForecast suggest that website owners create a List on Twitter - which allows specific topics to be selected and followed by people. Creating Lists is a very simple process, accessible from the Twitter.com website.

Once a Twitter List is built, SearchForecast suggest that website owners submit their URLs to Twitter List Directories such as Listorious - <http://listorious.com/>

As Listorious offers a collection of lists across various categories, it is suggested to add a list or category and then monitor how many people follow each list - as a measurement of popularity amongst groups.

Listorious allows lists to be added and curated by companies and individuals.
